MAY/2012

Welcome to ECAA's E-Newsletter, The Spark!

This e-newsletter was created to keep members informed on the Association's activities and upcoming events in a timely manner.

President's Message

All right, calling on all Contractors, PEC's, CME's, RME's and Associates. At the end of this month, specifically May 25th and May 26th, 2012, we will be having our Annual General Meeting "AGM" and need you all in attendance. We will be celebrating the 50th year of our Association's existence, and the finalized plans are all very exciting. All the registration information can be found on our web site www.ecaa.ab.ca. There is probably a link with this Spark newsletter. Remember we need your ideas as this Board and next year's Board will be focussing on the needs of the members. The members that show up and express their thoughts are the ones that are heard.

Clem Gratton,
PEC

This past year was a very interesting year serving as your President. I have to say that one of the questions that was asked of me more often than not was what is happening with the Masters program. I know that many articles and memos have been sent to our membership through this Spark E-newsletter as well as the Contactor. Many years ago our members had mandated the ECAA to make sure the Masters would not be abandoned by our Government. It was very close and there have been many ups and downs, but we have and are still working with the government trying to forge a new direction. We are where we are now because of the very hard work and a vigilant watch by your ECAA Board and Committees. We do have to celebrate their successes. The Masters has been retained in the Regulations, and now under the oversight by Safety Codes Council another ECAA vision is coming to fruition - mandatory code updates every code cycle to be able to keep your Masters valid. The Safety Codes Council is also striking up the Masters Advisory Committee, which will be a subcommittee of the Electrical Technical Council. It will oversee course content, exam review/updating, and advising the ETC on the Master's Program status. The ECAA has been requested to forward two names from our membership to serve on the Masters Advisory Committee. We will be able to keep our vigilant watch and also have a chance to report back to our members. Note that we only have the contact information for our CME/RME's who have maintained their membership. We will be communicating with these members to find out what is important and what the Masters Advisory Committee should be advised about, as well as advising these members with what is happening. The Safety Codes Council has the contact information for the Masters who only renew their Masters with the SCC, and I do not think they will have time or resources to engage with the Masters. So let us celebrate some of our victories that we have achieved with the Masters program, and trust me when I say, we will maintain our vigilance on your behalf and continue forging on with the changes as they come.

I again had the privilege of attending the Apprenticeship Board Awards ceremony, always a great event. I took part in awarding the Top Electrician Apprentice, Mr. Ryan Smith, a wonderful young man who works for Chown Electric (Edson). Congratulations again Ryan.

I also manned our ECAA booth at the recent RCIC (Residential Construction Industry Conference). This occurred on April 24th and 25th and is truly a great event. The educational opportunities available at this Construction Conference offer great topics of interest to all who work in Residential Construction. We had a great chance to get the ECAA and PEC name out to the Builder/Contractors that attended. Thanks to all who also worked the booth with me, your participation was greatly appreciated.
